TICK INFESTATION IN DOGS

Ticks are not only annoying but can also transmit dangerous diseases such as borreliosis (Lyme disease), anaplasmosis, or ehrlichiosis. They hide in tall grass, undergrowth, or forest edges and can attach to your dog's fur. Particularly at risk are the head, ears, neck, armpits, and groin area.

Regular protection with our tick spray helps prevent ticks from attaching to your dog in the first place.

RISKS FROM TICKS:

- Transmission of diseases (e.g., borreliosis & anaplasmosis)
- Inflammations and skin irritation

Yes, the formula was specially developed for dogs and consists of natural ingredients. When used as directed, the product is well tolerated.

DOES THE SPRAY HAVE A STRONG SCENT?

The spray has a pleasant, natural fragrance from essential oils such as citronella and lavender oil, which is subtle for humans and perceived as fresh.
